

30 Minutes Or Free: An Incredibly Short Story Twisted

I was sitting in my living room, watching TV, when I heard a knock at the door. I opened it to find a man standing there. He was wearing a black suit and tie, and he had a very serious expression on his face.

30 Minutes or Free: An incredibly short story

(TWISTED) by Aashish Gupta

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 89 KB

Text-to-Speech : Enabled

Screen Reader : Supported

Enhanced typesetting: Enabled

Word Wise : Enabled

Print length : 12 pages

Lending : Enabled

"Can I help you?" I asked.

"My name is John Smith," he said. "I'm here to make you an offer."

"What kind of offer?" I asked.

"I'm going to give you 30 minutes to change your life," he said. "If you can do it, I'll give you anything you want."

I was stunned. "Anything I want?" I asked.

"Anything," he said. "But there's a catch."

"What's the catch?" I asked.

"If you can't change your life in 30 minutes, you have to give me your soul," he said.

I was hesitant. I didn't know if I could change my life in 30 minutes. But I also didn't want to give up my soul. So I agreed to his offer.

The man smiled. "Good," he said. "The clock starts now."

And with that, he was gone.

I stood there for a moment, trying to process what had just happened. I couldn't believe that I had just agreed to give up my soul if I couldn't change my life in 30 minutes.

But I had to try. So I started to think about what I wanted to change. I thought about my job, my relationships, my hobbies, my dreams.

And then I had it. I knew what I had to do.

I ran to my bedroom and grabbed a piece of paper and a pen. I started to write down a list of all the things I wanted to change about my life.

I wrote down that I wanted to quit my job and start my own business. I wrote down that I wanted to find a girlfriend and get married. I wrote down that I wanted to travel the world and experience new cultures.

I wrote down everything that I had ever wanted to do but had never had the courage to try.

When I was finished, I looked at the clock. I had 10 minutes left.

I took a deep breath and started to make some phone calls. I called my boss and quit my job. I called my friends and told them I was going to start my own business. I called my family and told them I was going to travel the world.

I didn't know if any of it would work out, but I had to try. I had to change my life.

When the clock hit zero, I was exhausted. But I had done it. I had changed my life.

I looked up and saw John Smith standing in the doorway. He smiled at me.

"Congratulations," he said. "You've changed your life. Now, what do you want?"

I thought for a moment.

"I want to be happy," I said.

John Smith smiled. "That's easy," he said. "Just be yourself."

And with that, he was gone.

I stood there for a moment, thinking about what he had said. And then I smiled.

I was happy. I had changed my life, and I was happy.

The End

:

A man sits in his living room, looking at a piece of paper and a pen. He is surrounded by crumpled up pieces of paper, and he has a determined look on his face. He is trying to change his life in 30 minutes.

30 Minutes or Free: An incredibly short story

(TWISTED) by Aashish Gupta

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 89 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 12 pages
Lending	: Enabled

Unlock National Biology Success: The Ultimate Guide to Ace Your Exams

Mastering the Fundamentals: A Comprehensive Overview of Key Concepts The National Biology Success Guide provides a thorough exploration of the fundamental principles of...

AC/DC: The Early Years with Bon Scott – A Thunderstruck Journey into the Electrifying Foundation of an Iconic Rock Band

In the annals of rock and roll history, few bands have left an indelible mark on the hearts and souls of music lovers quite like AC/DC. Their electrifying anthems, thunderous...