Emily Harper is a successful businesswoman who has everything she's ever wanted, except a husband. Her mother, Eleanor, is a retired actress who's still living in the past and trying to relive her glory days through her daughter. And Emily's brother, Jake, is a struggling musician who's always getting into trouble.

When Jake brings his new girlfriend, Sarah, to the family Christmas party, Emily is immediately suspicious. Sarah is everything that Emily is not: she's beautiful, confident, and outgoing. Emily can't help but feel threatened by her, and she's determined to find a way to get rid of her.

But Sarah is not going to let Emily ruin her relationship with Jake. She's going to fight for her man, even if it means going head-to-head with his overbearing sister.

As the holiday festivities get underway, the tension between Emily and Sarah escalates. Eleanor tries to keep the peace, but she's quickly sucked into the feud. And Jake is just trying to stay out of the way, but he can't help but be drawn into the drama.

In the end, the Harper family will have to learn to put their differences aside and come together for the holidays. But not before they've had a few good laughs and created some unforgettable memories.
