From the acclaimed Irish author William Trevor comes a haunting and atmospheric literary thriller that explores the complexities of love, loss, and the human heart.

Mr Flood is a man on the run. Haunted by a tragic past, he seeks refuge in a small, forgotten town in the west of Ireland. There he meets Miss Vavasour, a lonely and enigmatic woman who offers him a glimpse of redemption.

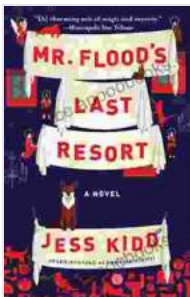

But Mr Flood's past is not so easily forgotten. As he delves deeper into the secrets of his own heart, he discovers that he is not the only one with something to hide.

Mr Flood's Last Resort is a gripping and suspenseful tale that will keep you on the edge of your seat from beginning to end. With its evocative prose and unforgettable characters, this novel is sure to stay with you long after you finish reading it.

William Trevor was an Irish novelist, playwright, and short story writer. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, in 1928. He began writing as a teenager and published his first novel, The Old Boys, in 1964.

Trevor's work is known for its psychological depth, its exploration of Irish history and society, and its use of evocative language. He has been compared to Samuel Beckett, James Joyce, and Edna O'Brien.

Trevor won numerous awards for his writing, including the Whitbread Novel Award, the Booker Prize, and the International IMPAC Dublin Literary Award. He was knighted in 2002 and died in 2016.
