A Step-by-Step Approach to Streamlined ID

Step 1: Analyze Needs

LEARNING NEEDS ANALYSIS (LNA)

IN HIGH RISK INDUSTRIES

Begin by thoroughly understanding the audience's needs, learning objectives, and performance gaps. Utilize techniques such as surveys, interviews, and task analyses to gather crucial information.

Step 2: Design and Develop

Model of Instructional Design

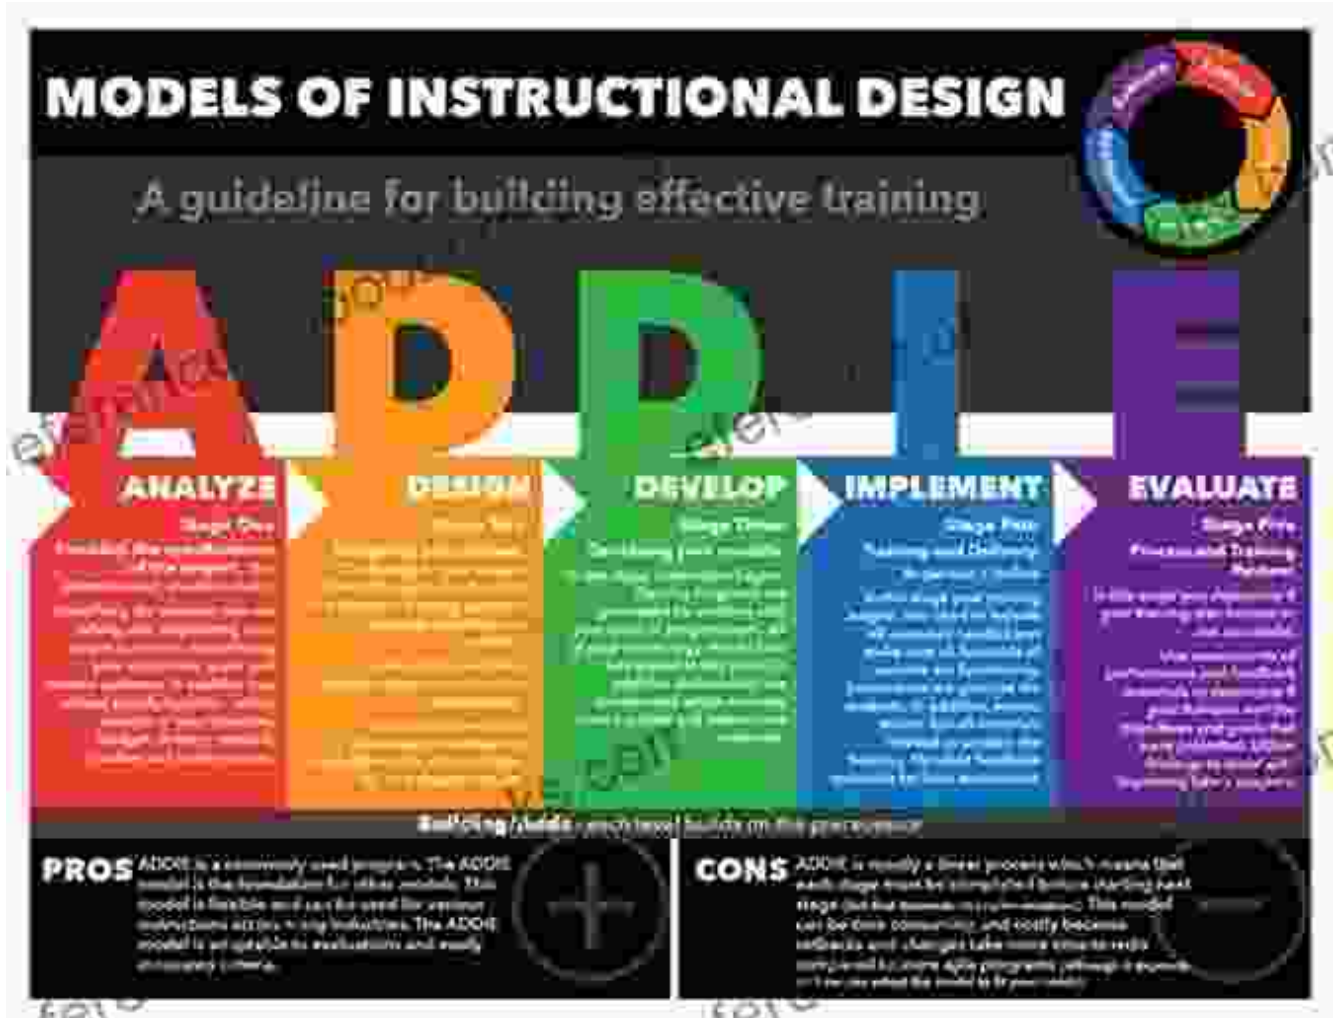

Translate the analysis results into an effective learning strategy. Choose appropriate instructional methods, select engaging media, and develop assessment plans to ensure learning outcomes are met.

Step 3: Implement

Roll out the developed learning solution effectively by training instructors, providing learner support, and gathering feedback to ensure smooth execution.

Step 4: Evaluate and Revise

Continuously measure the impact of your learning solution through formative and summative evaluations. Collect learner feedback, analyze performance data, and revise the design as needed to optimize results.
